

Chapter 1

Introduction

Philosophers have hitherto only interpreted the world in various ways;
the point is to change it.

—Karl Marx

1.1 Background

1.1.1 Problem Statment

Sally, a researcher at the FitzPatrick Institute, needs a way to weigh the red-winged starlings without startling them, because interestingly, they record their weight manually using a kitchen scale.

1.2 Objectives

1.3 System Requirements

1.4 Scope & Limitations

1.5 Report Outline

Bibliography

Glossary