

Chapter 1

Problem Statement

Philosophers have hitherto only interpreted the world in various ways;
the point is to change it.

—Karl Marx

Sally, a researcher at the FitzPatrick Institute, needs a way to weigh the red-winged starlings without startling them because interestingly they record their weight manually, using a kitchen scale.

Bibliography

Glossary